Focus of the Day: Keyworkers support families with children and youth with FASD who are have complex needs. But it is often difficult to know how to best support them. This workshop highlights comprehension of the complex mix of sensory processing issues, traumas and cognitive challenges these individuals live with. Detective work, clinical reasoning and problem solving is critical to the implementation of appropriate strategies that include co-regulation, sensory approaches and trauma informed practice. While the morning introduces the theory, the afternoon provides participants with an opportunity to problem-solve their individual cases through facilitated conversation and group interaction.
